Beauty in Frankness

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

Copyright, 1914, by Lillian Russell.
The expression of the emotions and the cultivation of them is more essential to beauty than balms, dressmaker's craft and the hairdresser's skill. To be sensible of one's own desires, sympathies and inclinations is self-knowledge, and self-knowledge not only beautifies with that radiance which illuminates from the very center of life and thought and soul, but is also a barrier against brooding, fear, disease, age and death.

Beauty of expression can be cultivated by crushing out low, sordid motives, by subjugating envy, hatred and malice, by lifting above the greeds and spite of the devil, by fostering frankness, by feeding the restless fires of noble impulse and by cherishing in the heart the abiding sympathy with the woes of humanity.

The sentiments of good or evil which thrill through our thoughts are indelible. The beauty of the American and foreign women declared that the Americans were more beautiful because their eyes were frank, and that the eyes of the French and Italian women were evasive and deceptive, yet beautiful.

The truth is that the foreign women cultivate the expression of the eyes to deceive. They are rarely frank, whereas the American women have not gone into that school of deception as yet, and I hope they will never do so, for frankness disarms evil. Honest eyes are the most lovable in the world.

Visible beauty is only the outward sign of interior beauty. It depends upon it the countenance that is sublimely beautiful is only the semblance of an illuminated mind. Not only is mobility of the muscles of the face an agent of beauty, but tranquillity also plays its part.

To present a countenance of complete passivity is to present a blank outside, which is in itself a desire to look beneath the surface, to be frank, think frankly and speak frankly. The look of frankness is honest and conveys honesty and dependability.

Remember—From the looks, more than the lips, is the soul reflected.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

R. H. You are probably weary of hearing so much of me, but I will tell you that I have never realized the wonderful benefits that come from this practice of deep breathing. I have started your blood dancing with vigor through your veins. It develops the chest, and it throws off a vast number of impurities. It will take practice to make you breathe with ease, but when you get the habit you will never give it up. Until you try it you will never know how much it will add to your beauty. If you care for instructions for deep breathing, send me a stamped, addressed envelope, and I shall be glad to send them to you.

Mrs. G. E. Before you take a mountain trip, it is well to make some preparation for it. You can easily do this by walking up and down an inclined board, which may be arranged without any trouble, or you can walk up and down the hills. It is better to begin gradually. Do not make sudden changes from a slow to a rapid walk. The best time in the morning, in walking up a hill, the feet should be turned out, while in walking down they should parallel or turn slightly inward. Climbing descends the thighs and calves. It is fine for obesity. The lungs, too, do harder work and take in more oxygen. Be sure your shoes are comfortable and have thick soles. A growth of hair. A rather short skirt is also necessary, and one that is wide enough to take a good sized step without being hampered by a tight skirt.

A. J. Tennis is an excellent exercise both for reducing and developing the thin girl will grow plump from development of her muscles. The extra fats are burned up and waste matter is quickly cast off. Any strenuous exercise that involves the muscles of the arms and chest will reduce the bust. I could not advise you to give this exercise up, for it is splendid for the health. Walking is also an excellent exercise. It is healthy and strengthening. Do not give up either exercise.

E. J. E. I am sorry, but I cannot give you the name of a scalp specialist. I would advise you to massage your scalp and use a good hair tonic. The scalp has probably become tight. This will cause the hair to fall. Scalp massage will loosen the scalp and make it flexible and give the hair more nourishment and promote a growth of hair. Massage your scalp each night for about fifteen minutes, using a good hair tonic. I am sure this will improve your hair and make it more full of life and stop it from falling. After you have given this treatment a fair trial, and still your hair falls, consult a scalp specialist. I am sure, however, that this treatment will help you. If you care for my formula for hair tonic, send me a stamped, addressed envelope, and I shall gladly send you the formula and instructions for massaging the scalp.

Mother: Thick lips are frequently due to some obstructions in the nose and throat passages. A child with adenoids often develops thick and protruding lips, which with the open mouth, give a rather silly expression to the face. The child's mouth should be examined for enlarged tonsils and adenoids. Breathing exercises in the early stages will do good, and may be all that is necessary if enlarged tonsils are the only trouble.

BAG TO MATCH GOWN

Here is One That May Be Made at Home.
This bag may be made of black silk or moire, gathered on to jade bracelet, which may be purchased in the Oriental shops at very small prices. The band is made of material to match a certain gown or suit, and finished top and bottom with a tiny ruffle of the same. The design should first be traced on the band by means of carbon paper, taking care to space the motifs evenly.
The oval centers of the flowers are made of tiny bits of brilliant silk, applied to the band with buttonhole stitch, and the stems are outlined. Then a circle of French knots is worked about each center to indicate the outer edge of the flower.
Then the bag is applied to the bag, and the bottom is gathered and finished with a large tassel of silk or beads.

NEW THINGS IN PARIS

Two Ways of Diverging Which May Not Imitate.

A new women's club has just been founded in Paris, the qualifications for membership being divorce. It goes by the name of "Club des Divorcees," or the Club of the Disenfranchised, and meets monthly for the purpose of confiding past experiences and "laughing them over together."
Possibly you would like such a club at Reno.

That Sore Throat.

Nip your sore throat in the bud by gargling with permanganate of potash. But do not hurry.

"Boiling" the Food.

Rather eat less.
But do not hurry.
Masticate thoroughly.
Chew till there's nothing to chew.
Living is also of benefit to the teeth.
Live on soft foods and your teeth drop out.
Hurried eating is responsible for indigestion.
A comfortable diet, simple, nourishing, for dyspepsia, constipation, torpid liver and headache.
Many make the mistake of only chewing hard food, it is just as necessary to chew mashed potatoes and the like.

WEAR FOR WEE MAIDS

Simple and Pretty Frocks Which are Easily Made.

Children's fashions are charming. The lilies and gingham are especially pleasing, and they are made up by any one who is at all handy with scissors and needle.
A comfortable dress, which would do later on for seaside wear, can be developed in either navy blue, linen or navy serge, and is made with a fitted skirt, hemstitched collar and cuffs and a glimpse of white lawn or muslin at the neck.
A party frock for festive occasions is in the form of a simple, fitted dress of lace. The upper part, which resembles a pouched tunic, finishes with little frills of lace at the rounded neck and edging the elbow sleeves. Two rows of tiny pink enamel buttons adorn the front of the dress, and the sash is of pink tulle.

The Sash.

The sash is a favored finish to all dresses.

Face Peeling Easy--Blond or Brunette

"The blonde's complexion fades early, because her skin is extraordinarily thin and fine," says Mme. Lina Cavalieri. "The brunette's, as a rule, is the reverse. The skin is thicker and has a tendency to an oily appearance."

For either the faded blonde's skin or the brunette's oily or sallow complexion, the best remedy is ordinary mercerized wash used every night, this will give one an entirely new complexion within about a week's time. The wash gradually peels off the worn-out surface skin, with all its defects, a little exfoliation, without affecting the pores underneath in the least. The latter will have the exquisitely beautiful glow of youth—indeed, one may readily lose ten or fifteen years from her age, so far as appearance is concerned, by using this simple treatment. The wash, available at any drug store, is applied like cream.—Advertisement.
